DASH Prime LLC Rule 606 Order Routing Disclosure Report Q1 2020

DASH Prime, LLC gives its customers the ability to route orders in equities and exchange listed options to various venues including exchanges, executing brokers, dark pools, broker Algos and market makers. Customers are required to select the venue to which they wish to have an order routed at the time that each order is placed.

DASH Prime does not make routing decisions or exercise discretion over the routing of its customers' held orders. However, under the strict definition of "directed order" DASH Prime must classify some orders which clients instruct us to route to other executing brokers as "non-directed". As a result, these orders are categorized as non-directed from a regulatory standpoint and statistics related to them are being provided here pursuant to SEC Rule 606(a). It is important to keep in mind that DASH Prime did not exercise discretion related to the routing of these "non-directed" orders. Therefore, the routing statistics being provided in this report represent where DASH Prime's clients, not DASH Prime, elected to route non-directed orders.

Ultimately, routing discretion may be exercised by the executing brokers to which customers sent their non-directed orders. In order to assist you in understanding how these brokers handle non-directed orders we provide links to their detailed 606 reports.

Upon written request, DASH Prime will provide information related to specific client orders that were routed for execution in the past six months. This information will include the market participant to which the order was routed, whether the order was directed or nondirected, and the time of the transaction, if any, that resulted from such order.

Please note that because DASH Prime does not make any routing decisions on non-directed orders, and simply forwards orders to the executing brokers specified in customers' order instructions, we do not break out the routing statistics by order type.

Material Aspects of Relationships with Venues

In this section you will find information related certain financial arrangements which DASH Prime has with various venues (i.e. executing brokers) to which customers route their non-directed orders. It is important to understand that although a financial arrangement may exist between DASH and a venue, DASH does not control to which venue clients ultimately choose to send their orders. Order routing decisions are made by clients, not by DASH Prime.

The net aggregate and per share amounts reported in this section are calculated by netting the total execution fees paid, payment for order flow received, exchange fees paid and exchange rebates received from/to each executing broker. Some of these rebates and fees may be passed back to clients, therefore, the reported amounts are not necessarily indicative of the financial benefit or cost realized by DASH Prime.
